*India-Pakistan: (Information as of 4:30 AM EDT)

Sporadic firing and raiding by opposing forces, magnified by propaganda charges and countercharges, apparently still continue.

Pakistan claims that Indian troops in the Chhamb sector of Kashmir continue to violate the cease-fire agreement, in one instance having pushed back Pakistani troops with a "sizable force." New Delhi asserts that Pakistani troops have fired on several villages along the West Pakistan - India border and on Indian defensive positions in Kashmir.

Economic repercussions of the recent conflict and the continuing state of military confrontation are beginning to become apparent and are likely to multiply. Rations of wheat and rice have been cut in some areas of western India. Textile mill output has fallen, with consequent unemployment, owing to the accumulation of cloth stocks caused by slack demand. Military needs have resulted in disruption of rail and road services in some areas, with resultant difficulties in moving commodities from port areas to the interior. In addition, fewer ships are calling at Bombay, and shipping companies' plans to operate separate services to India and Pakistan will probably occasion delays in cargo deliveries and an increase in cost to importers.

In West Pakistan, many factories reportedly have shut down or are operating part-time because of a lack of materials and orders. Production for export has dropped precipitately owing to uncertainty of supplies from abroad, lack of rail freight space to reach the ports, and difficulty in obtaining shipping. Domestic production has also declined markedly owing to less public spending and businessmen's reluctance to buy for future needs and to maintain normal inventories. Tightness of credit is also evident.]

[Pakistan's breaking of diplomatic relations with its Commonwealth associate, Malaysia, announced abruptly by Foreign Minister Bhutto yesterday, follows recent Pakistani allegations that Malaysia has favored India in the India-Pakistan conflict. Pakistan has drawn increasingly closer to Indonesia, supporting it morally in its anti-Malaysia campaign, and Indonesia's siding with Pakistan in the Kashmir dispute may have given impetus to the break.]

Dominican Republic: [The threatened terrorist campaign against US personnel may have begun. On 2 October civilians in a passing car fired several shots at a US command post in Santo Domingo. The next day a time bomb placed in a bar being used as an enlisted men's club injured six US soldiers and four Dominicans. Extremists, particularly the pro-Castro 14th of June Group, reportedly have been organizing terrorist groups to attack both Americans and anti-Communist Dominicans.]

*Brazil: Incomplete returns from the 3 October gubernatorial elections indicate that candidates unfriendly to the Castelo Branco government will almost certainly win in the two key states. The prospect of victories for Negrao de Lima in Guanabara and Israel Pinheiro in Minas Gerais is adding to the concern of many military officers who fear that leftist and corrupt elements are regaining political influence. Former president Kubitschek's return this week from self-imposed exile and the continuing release of imprisoned subversive leaders, such as Peasant League head Francisco Juliao, have contributed to the dissatisfaction within the military.
